Institutional Review Board Status

The advisor must check one of the boxes below indicating whether the proposed study requires IRB approval:

- Yes - The proposed study involves the use of human participants. Evidence of IRB approval must be submitted with this form.

- No - The proposed study clearly does NOT involve the use of human participants (e.g., a meta-analysis of publicly available research studies, computer/mathematical simulations, analysis of public records or policies)

- Unsure - It is unclear whether this study requires IRB approval (e.g., analysis of archival data). In this case, consult IRB and get its approval when needed. Submit either IRB's confirmation that the study does not require IRB review, or evidence of IRB approval, whichever is applicable.

Dissertation Proposal Status

- Pass: The candidate may proceed or may proceed after making revisions specified by the committee.

- Fail: The candidate does not meet the committee's expectations and shall be dismissed from the degree program. Options for an alternative terminal degree should be reviewed with the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies.
